

KNOWLEDGE AND INNOVATION LAWYER (SANDTON)

An opportunity exists for a knowledge and innovation lawyer

Key areas of responsibility include:

- working with practice teams to identify opportunities for innovation that enhance client service delivery and knowledge management within the firm
- initiating, scoping and managing practice innovation and knowledge projects
- developing and implementing change management strategies to drive adoption within the firm of innovative solutions
- keeping abreast of developments in legal technology
- trialling, launching and ongoing management of legal technology within the firm
- organising and delivering training in relation to legal technology and innovation initiatives and supporting lawyers in the practical use of legal technology in their work
- compiling document databases
- assisting with the maintenance of commercial precedents.

Functional knowledge and experience required:

- experience in implementation of various legal technology solutions, including AI-enabled contract review tools, e-discovery tools, transaction management tools and document automation
- general commercial drafting experience and knowledge of commercial law

Qualifications and expertise required:

- Admitted attorney
- At least 3 years post qualification experience in commercial law
- Qualifications, or equivalent experience, in legal information management or information technology is advantageous but not essential.

Skills and attributes required:

- Good presentation skills
- Ability to maintain constructive working relationships
- Attention to detail,
- Good time management and problem-solving skills and able to work under pressure
- Strong communication skills (verbal and written)
- Strong team player
- Ability to train others

Should you wish to discuss your interest in this position please contact:

Sarah O'Brien

sobrien@werksmans.com

+27 11 535 8277